30,000 PEOPLE IN PEACE MEETING

Songs and General Prayer for End of European War Joined in By Great Multitude.

(By Associated Press.)

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 25.—In front of the historic Alamo 30,000 people joined in the public prayer for peace on Alamo plaza at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. It was the largest public thanksgiving service in the history of the South, and all creeds and all nationalities were represented. In the half hour program arranged for the opening of three days' thanksgiving song service and home-coming celebration a chorus of 1,000 trained voices under the leadership of Prof. Arthur Claassen sang "The Heavens Are Telling."

"Home, Sweet Home" and "The Lord's Own Day," led by the municipal band of 80 pieces and the trained singers, including all the German singing societies of the city, the entire assembly, of which 5,000 were school children, sang "Oh God of All the Nations" (peace prayer composed for the occasion), "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

For five minutes preceding the peace song service every church bell in the city was rung. President Woodrow Wilson wired a message indorsing the festival and wishing success of the peace service.

A VILLA LEADER MAKES APOLOGIES

Regrets Act of Men Who Cursed an American Consul and American Officials.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Nov. 25.—Governor Randall, a Villa leader in Sonora, has expressed regret to Colonel Sage at Nogales, Ariz., for the act of two Villa colonels Wednesday when they cursed and insulted Consul Simplic and other American officials. Secretary of State Lansing today directed that an investigation be made of the killing of the American engineer Bean.

BAPTIST DEACONS' MEETING.

The deacons and finance committee of the First Baptist Church will meet tonight on important business at 7:30 in the parlors of the church. M. E. Weaver, Pastor.

The divine essence itself is love and wisdom.—Swendenborg.

Hokus—"I actually caught Long-horn telling the truth yesterday." Pokus—"Wasn't he embarrassed?" Hokus—"Only momentarily. He immediately tried to lie out of it."—Life.

Tolstoy and the Peasants.

Tolstoy, the great Russian novelist, spent his whole life in a close communion with the peasants and was persuaded that all the wisdom he might have attained concerning life, its true meaning and its true aim, was due but to this fact. He knew the peasant soul; he spoke and he wrote, especially in his religious and moral works, the language of the peasants. He always says, speaking of truth, that he means "the simple peasant truth." He considers the work of the peasant the only dignified labor, and he never ceased to investigate the simple thoughts and the clear judgments of the true workers—the peasants. At the very end of his life, when he left his home he walked with his daughter through a village and said to her: "I don't yet know our peasants. I will take a stick and wander from door to door, knocking at each house. Then, perhaps, listening to the answers they will give me, I will penetrate into their true minds."—Exchange.

Color Schemes in Rooms.

When following out a color scheme in furnishing a room a little touch of an entirely different but harmonizing color produces an excellent effect. This was brought out by a professional decorator, who was discussing the furnishings of her own home.

One room which was furnished in green and had a green velvet couch cover was especially noteworthy. "The room needs something to break the monotony," she said, "and some pillows with a bit of old rose coloring will do it."

A bedroom where the color scheme is blue and white is attractive, but requires another color to give it warmth.

A straight color scheme is easy enough for any one to carry out, but it calls for considerable skill to make it distinctive, as in the practical application of a little variety is usually necessary to make the furnishings really charming.—Good Health.

Don't Be Radical.

The sooner young folks learn not to be radical the sooner they will find themselves floating serenely down the stream of life without friction. To be radical takes lots of trouble; you have to be continually ripping off veneers, scratching surfaces, engaging in original research, applying acid tests, lifting lids, making analyses, tearing off masks, demanding proof and so on indefinitely. But it is all pernicious activity. The leaders and makers and sellers of earthy things up so that they will seem to be so and so; their leadership and their fame and their profits depend upon our being perfectly credulous and accepting things for what they seem. Why, then, ask embarrassing questions and thus incur the everlasting ill will of those who are trying to hoodwink us? It is much better to take things as they come (paying cash, of course) and be humbly grateful.—Life.

Poe and the Literary Messenger.

With his stories and his criticisms during the meager two years of his connection with the magazine Poe was certainly able to reflect that, as at no time in his previous literary history, he had put Richmond on the map. But the letter he wrote to Anthony when projecting the Stylus was somewhat flamboyant. "I had joined the Messenger, as you know, then in its second year, with 700 subscribers, and the general outcry was that because a magazine had never succeeded south of the Potomac therefore a magazine never could succeed. Yet in spite of this and the wretched taste of the proprietor, which hampered and controlled me at all points, I increased the circulation in fifteen months to 5,500 subscribers, paying an annual profit of $10,000 when I left it."—Algernon Tassin in Bookman.

Gamboge.

Gamboge is one of the artist's most important yellows. It is the gum resin of a tree which bears yellow flowers and leathery, laurel-like leaves. The name of the pigment indicates the country from which it comes, for gamboge is simply a corruption of Cambodge or Cambodia. In this far eastern country the tree grows wild and sheds those sticky tears which help the artist to paint the sunrise and the autumn tints of the woods. Gamboge was brought to Europe by merchants from the east toward the end of the sixteenth century.—London Answers.

The Height of It.

"They tell me," said the professor, "that Mrs. Higginoller is a very sympathetic woman."

"I should say she was," said Harkaway. "Why, when her husband eloped with Mrs. Gayboy she immediately sent Mrs. Gayboy a telegram of condolence."—New York Times.

Couldn't Talk.

De Style—"You say that loving pair of deaf mutes were sitting in the parlor and didn't carry on a conversation? Gambusta—"They couldn't, for they were holding hands."—New York Press.

Even Virtues.

"They're a happy couple," "What makes them so?" "She can cook a dinner without burning it, and he can eat one without roasting it."—Baltimore American.

His Reason.

"Why do you always leave the house, James, when I begin to sing the old songs?" pouted Mrs. Howit.

"Fresh air," said Howit.—Harper's.

Another Way.

"I don't see how young Bentley can sidestep all his bills." "He doesn't," said Howit.—The collector.—Louisville Herald.

AMMUNITION STOLEN FROM VILLA'S ARMY

WHO'S WHO IN SLIPPERY GULCH.

A Partial List of Notables Who Will Participate in Production.

Although our powder factories are taxed to their capacity filling war orders, the local Elks have at last succeeded in securing a supply of ammunition to be used in their production of "Slippery Gulch" here next week. Luckily they were tipped off to a shipment intended for Pancho Villa's struggling army, and forthwith pounced upon same, commandeering it for their own "shoot-em-up" program.

Everyone is clamoring for jobs in "Slippery Gulch" village, and here are a few well known members of the antlered tribe that will officiate during the magnificent "skin-game."

Geo. W. Smith, a local cotton manipulator, and M. B. Parker, of Brazos Bottom fame, will relieve you of your backs at the two crap tables.

J. E. Covey and Pete Saunders will be the expert "chucklers" at the chuck-luck game.

J. S. Doane, who alighted them for years on the Pacific Coast, and Curt Oliver, attired in his gambler's checks, will slide the cards at the farobank.

Roger Astin will spin the marble at the roulette wheel, and Bob Harrison will rake in the winnings with a crooked stick especially planned and built for the occasion. Bob it some "croupier"—watch him pull in the "sleepers."

By special arrangement with Mr. W. E. Saunders we have borrowed his son, Will, who will be in charge of the general store, assisted by a clerk de luxe, Bob Roberts—Webb Bros. contribution to the enterprise.

The "Eats Emporium" will be handled by two culinary experts, Tylen Haswell and Darden Chance. Bro. Haswell insists on serving pie, but we have at last convinced him that there was no pie in '49, so he will dish out "hot dogs" instead. Darden says if necessary, they will serve ox tongue and ox tail soup—to make ends meet and show a profit.

Walter Coulter will be head bartender at the Gulch Saloon, ably assisted by Hal Saunders, who, by the way, is "some mixer." Don't fail to visit the "thirst parlor."

The dance hall will be looked after by Will Howell, who will see that all patrons check their guns before entering and dance with their feet. Mr. Howell will give special exhibition dances during each evening—don't miss seeing this Master of the Terpsichorean art. The orchestra will be directed by George Brandon, who puts Jawn Fill-Up Susie in the shade. George is now writing a "new one," an irresistible concoction of music entitled, "Slippery Gulch Glide."

The above is only a partial list of celebrities who will be seen at "Slippery Gulch," but space will not permit us to pursue the matter further today, so watch the papers tomorrow for further particulars and notables. Remember—the big show opens Monday night, and runs all week.
